We're looking for reports tonight from the WWE Raw show in Winnipeg, a rare Friday night Smackdown house show in Hot Springs, AR as well as TNA's first event of 2009, a house show in Wilson, NC at dave@wrestlingobserver.com and bryan@wrestlingobserver.com

Saturday has Raw in Rochester, MN and Smackdown in Poplar Bluff, MO. Sunday has TNA's Genesis PPV from Charlotte, Raw in Des Moines and Smackdown in Springfield, MO.

Monday has Raw in Sioux City, IA with Shawn Michaels vs. John Cena, Kane vs. Randy Orton and William Regal vs. C.M. Punk for the IC title where the title can change hands via DQ. There is also a Monday night Smackdown brand house show in St. Joseph, MO, a city that many years ago produced more pro wrestlers per capita than almost any other.

Smackdown will be taping two weeks worth of shows on Tuesday night in Omaha.

TNA also will be taping Impact in Orlando on Monday and Tuesday, before the crew leaves for its biggest tour in its history in Europe, starting with a show on Friday night in Dublin.

Smackdown tonight will be built around an angle where Jeff and his fiancée Beth are involved in a hit-and-run accident. Jeff will end up OK in storyline but Beth may not (originally she was going to be in bad shape but that might have been changed). Regardless, the person responsible will likely be the same person responsible for attacking him in the stairwell prior to Survivor Series, who will probably end up being Christian Cage. The rest of the show has:

- * HHH in a tables match
- * HHH in a handicap match
- * HHH in a last man standing match
- * Colons vs. Kendrick & Zeke for the Tag Titles
- * Shelton vs. Undertaker in a non-title match
- * Bellas vs. Michelle & Victoria

A note if you are not a subscriber, all both print and web site subscriptions that start today will include our special awards double issue that is coming out in a few weeks, which is traditionally our best selling issue of the year.

This coming Monday's issue of the Wrestling Observer Newsletter features the most in-depth coverage anywhere of the interviews with Vince McMahon, Stephanie McMahon-Levesque, Dixie Carter Salinas, Linda McMahon and others by the staff of Congressman Henry Waxman. We go through all the major points in the interviews, go through the reality of what it means, who stumbled, who contradicted each other, and run down facts, figures and cases when it comes to drug testing in both WWE and TNA. We've already gotten strong feedback that this is one of the best issues in several months because of the lead story.

Who looked good? Who looked bad? Who said what? Who was dishonest? Who skirted dishonesty? And the real story behind a lot of the questions and answers. This issue is available today to web site premium members along with usually 10 issues per month of the Observer Newsletter, both past and present.

We look at why this report was just released and from a political standpoint, what it is all about. We look at the results, in detail, of both WWE and TNA drug testing.

We look at Carter's reaction to be called "a refuge for WWE failed drug users and a safe haven for drug users," and the hiring of Pacman Jones and Kurt Angle. We look at the unique benefit pro wrestling has in being pro wrestling. We look at the questions of failed tests without suspensions.

We look at what the WWE's own doctor said about the number of positive tests as compared to any other drug program in the world.

We look at similarities and differences between the WWE program and real sports. We look at Vince, Linda, Stephanie and their own doctor's different individual reactions to the number of failures. We look at the failures as compared to the first round of testing in 1992 and with the World Bodybuilding Federation and the different reactions.

The Wrestling Observer ranges from 25,000 to 40,000 words covering pro wrestling and MMA all over the world.

Each issue has coverage and analysis of all the major news, plus every issue breaks major news stories before the Internet sites and has the most complete look at the business as a whole anywhere. The Observer is now in its 27th year of being the leading insider pro wrestling publication in the world. The biggest and most influential names in the pro wrestling industry as well as the MMA industry, from bookers, to promoters to Hall of Fame wrestlers and fighters to the biggest current names, both on camera, and behind the scenes, along with thousands of readers in all 50 states and 30 countries subscribe. Many have subscribed as long as 20 years or more straight. They get the most detailed and inside coverage of what is going on all over the world and an accuracy from having the most inside sources that can't be found on the web. Everyone from Wall Street to the major offices to the TV networks in U.S. and Japan turn to the Observer for what is going on in the business. If you are a new subscriber ordering 24 or more issues, you can get one free classic issue of your choice sent to you today. With a 40 issue subscription, you can get two free classic issues sent to you today. Just send your Visa or Master Card order with your name, address, phone number, Visa or Master Card number and an expiration date to dave@wrestlingobserver.com or you can order by faxing that information to 408-244-3402. You can also subscribe via paypal at www.paypal.com and using the dave@wrestlingobserver.com address or subscribe via check, cash or money order, as well as credit card, by mail, by sending to Wrestling Observer Newsletter, P.O. Box 1228, Campbell, CA 95009-1228.

We look at how the business has changed in the last 17 years, what happened to cause the deal of allowing wrestlers to continue working while suspended, and what caused it to stop.

We look at Dr. Black's reaction to performers continuing to work while suspended, as well as one who was made world champion shortly after his name came out, as well as his reaction to wrestlers publicly defending the policy, saying they are clean, and it being a lie in some cases.

We look at WWE's hiring practices, including a rundown of wrestlers hired after failing drug tests before signing their contract and what it says, including eight in a four month period reviewed in a case-by-case basis.

We look at what drug, by far, gets the most positives, and how it contradicts most claims within the business regarding what drugs are the most popular. We look at what Vince McMahon said about hiring practices and how in actuality, the results are pretty much the opposite.

We look at the Chris Benoit drug testing results and case in detail, as well as how the man often pushed as the biggest star on television is never tested and the reaction by the doctor to that question.

We look at Vince McMahon's defense of his company and claimed reasons for testing that contradicted what everyone else said about the same question, as well as why he said they dropped testing.

We look back at drug testing in WCW, including a story on why the program fell apart at the start and why companies simply can't be trusted to police themselves.

We look back at the case of D.H. Smith, Vince McMahon's tirade against Henry Waxman, and a background of WWF's first two drug testing programs.

We look at Dixie Carter's defense of her own companies position.

We look at huge differences in WWE in recent years, Dixie Carter's description of the public perception of wrestling due to WWE, as well as her perception of her base audience.

We look at subtle policy changes and an explanation as to why. We look at differences in opinions between the guy who is supposed to be heading the program and Vince McMahon and suspensions that didn't happen because of it. We look at a lot of naivete that will startle people.

We look at the subject of testing for pot and where it stands. We look at wrestlers who have tried to cheat on tests and what has happened.

We look at wrestlers who have paper trails showing purchase of certain steroids during the period in question that never tested positive.

We look back at the case of Dr. George Zahorian, as well as the 1994 trial of Vince McMahon.

What explanation from what prominent wrestler as to why his name came up on the Signature pharmacy list did Vince McMahon contradict.

What former company tag team champion did Vince McMahon claim to have never heard of?

What program that Vince McMahon was praised for doing did McMahon himself claim it was for public relations reasons.

Two people who worked directly for Stephanie McMahon talk about her interview and knowledge of wrestling.

Former WWE employees give specific examples contradicting Stephanie McMahon's claim that she never witnessed anyone talking about steroids or illegal drugs in wrestling.

Dixie Carter talks TNA revenue, revenue streams, audience they are aiming for, ratings theories, Samoa Joe, differences with WWE and hiring people with known drug issues.

12 different drug cases that came up for review by the WWE program and how ruling were made.

We also have an update on Christian Cage, more details on the WGN deal and why WWE had to take it even though the last thing they need right now is another hour of television to produce each week. We also look at a company working with WWE in a financial bind and why it's gotten WWE behind in a category. We also look at stats from 2008 including most appearances, wins and losses, as well as Chris Jericho talks about the inspiration for his new character.

We also have more on the WWE PPV schedule for 2009, and have coverage of the weekend WWE house shows.

We also have full coverage of the 20th annual Tokyo Dome, with a look at why everyone came out of the show encouraged, the real attendance, key moments on the show, the New Japan/TNA relationship and what was talked with All Japan and NOAH during the week about how to strengthen the industry in 2009. We also look at notable celebrities at the show, as well as a look back at the first pro wrestling show ever at the Tokyo Dome.

We've also got detailed match-by-match coverage.

We also have the final ratings news from New Year's Eve, both the good and the bad, and what person ended up being the ratings champion this year as well as who didn't do as well.

We've got a review of the 1/16 ROH PPV, the first major event from the company since Adam Pearce replaced Gabe Sapolsky as booker.

We also look at the surprises of the biggest show of the Sengoku promotion, as well as the ramifications of Antonio Silva going through with his fight.

We've also got all of our usual weekly coverage with notes on the ratings, results of the major league live events over the past week as well as major TV show reviews.

-- As noted on the front page, WWE cut 10 percent of its staff in the last couple of days as part of the cutting $20 million in costs talked about on the last conference call. It is believed there may be some talent cuts coming as well, and there have been discussions about bringing more individuals up from developmental in the next week or two. The company is taking a one-time $3 million restructuring charge and will save $8 million annually as a result of this.

-- Those that have been following the Waxman story will find this awesome. Steve Keirn was on Bubba the Love Sponge's show earlier this week, and when asked about WWE hiring practices he said what they were looking for were guys between 6-2 and 6-6 who were lean and looked good on television. Awesome.

-- And if you've missed it, we've gotten great reviews for both the Mick Foley and Lance Storm shows we've done this week, plus both the Wrestling Observer and Figure Four newsletters, all of which covered this subject in great depth. Hasn't been as good a time to sign up in quite awhile, and January through April is usually the most newsworthy time of the year with all of the WrestleMania festivities.

-- Last night's Impact had 26 minutes and 22 seconds of wrestling on it, which is actually pretty damn good for that show.
