We've got two issues of the Wrestling Observer Newsletter coming next week.

Our two lead stories include a look at the commercial free Raw and what the ratings mean. We look at the last time WWE drew ratings at this level, how Raw ratings usually work and the effect of not having commercials, its affect on PPV, the financial considerations of the cost of Raw for USA Network, exactly how much this Raw will mean to USA's weekly rating, the advantage and disadvantage of Raw for a network as well as the viability of doing such a show again.

We look at DVR viewership and how this affects Raw and Smackdown today, who watched Raw this week, details behind the Trump storyline from both this week and last week, where the dual ownership idea was first talked about, who was talked about for the role in creative and why Vince McMahon always nixed it in the past, as well as the reducing of the money.

We also look at the career and life of Mitsuharu Misawa. --There will be an Internet PPV of tonight's Sapp vs. Lashley show starting at 9 p.m. at <http://www.gofightlive.tv> for $9.95

--Limp Bizkit is out of UFC 100. According to a post by Fred Durst, he said UFC and Interscope Records couldn't come to an agreement regarding certain DVD rights. He said that the band was also unhappy about UFC wanting them to perform at Mandalay Bay Beach. He said they asked to switch, citing it as having an inappropriate layout for a heavy rock concert, being on a stage in front of a pool. They asked to be moved to the House of Blues at Mandalay Bay, a more traditional concert setting. UFC said they wanted more of a beach party vibe to the concert scheduled for the night before the Lesnar vs. Mir fight, and would not agree to allowing the concert moved. Durst said the band members are huge UFC fans, but felt it was unfair for UFC to falsely confirm and advertise Limp Bizkit would be performing only to change their minds. He said they would be performing in the area that night. (thanks to Jim Papanou)

--For a complete story on the arrest of Brian Lawler, as well as why his face was all messed up, having nothing to do with the arrest, you can go to <http://rasslinriotnews.blogspot.com> Short version is he was arrested at 3 a.m. early Friday morning outside a convenience store and charged with public intoxication after a store clerk told police officers he fell over a cooler outside the store. The police placed him in custody and an officer said he cursed and threatened him while he was being arrested and threatened to "rip off his head." He had gotten into a bar fight last Saturday night with an MMA fighter in Jackson, TN. Lawler and the guy were fighting and then other guys jumped on him he was beaten up but still taunting everyone to continue fighting.

--Bruno Sammartino won't be attending the MMA show tonight at the Mellon Arena in Pittsburgh. He was originally planning to.

--Sheik Abdul Bashir signed a new three-year deal with TNA.

--A story on that show is at <http://www.post-gazette.com/pg/09176/979775-139.stm> The story talks about the legalization in New York and claims Bob Reilly has said there have been 13 or 14 deaths in the sport. Okay, if you want to oppose it and oppose kickboxing and boxing as well, go right ahead, I'll never argue that viewpoint. But that is making up facts. If he actually said that, he's either never done a smidgen of research of something he's talking everywhere about, or he's an outright liar. There have been two deaths, one in the Ukraine and one stemming from a fight in Houston. He noted Zach Kirk was paralyzed in a fight on May 26, which is the case. It notes Carlton Haselrig, a former guard with the Steelers and arguably the greatest college heavyweight in U.S. history, fights tonight. He's now in his 40s, but is 3-1.

--A correction from this week's Observer. In the note about Doug Furnas in relation to the story of all the problems people in All Japan from the 90s have had physically, we noted Furnas was battling an early form of Alzheimer's but it was an early form of Parkinson's.

--Last Saturday night's UFC Ultimate Fighter Finals airs 4-7 p.m. both Eastern and Pacific time tonight. If you haven't seen the match, you owe it to yourself to tune in at around 6:30 p.m. because the Clay Guida vs. Diego Sanchez fight was one of the best in UFC history.

--The Smackdown rating will probably be down .1 from what it would have been because of last night's New York time change. Because there was a rain delay in the Yankees-Mets game, the game ended at 11 p.m., and by the time the post-game show ended it was 12:05 a.m. Smackdown started at that point. (thanks to Dan Wahlers)

--Superstar Billy Graham was hospitalized last night as his legs were numb and he went in and X-rays shows 2 of the discs in his lower back fused on their own with the obliteration of a disc separating them. He underwent traction and is back home, but will be unable to appear in Melrose, MA, at 590 Main St. for the Millennium Wrestling Federation show tomorrow he was to be part of. The event is still taking place. Awesome Kong, ODB, The Kat, Spike Dudley, John Cena Sr., Antonio Thomas, Eddie Edwards and Rick Fuller will be there and there will be taped stuff with JBL. It is a benefit show for Shiloh Pepin, the mermaid girl, to help her get to a summer camp. They are attempting to get Graham to do a phone Q&A session with fans. MWF, in attempting to make good, is offering all ticket purchasers a free Graham autographed photo, a free Graham action figure and two new wrestling books. For those who had pre-purchased autograph/photos for Graham, the purchases will be refunded via Paypal this coming week.

--A short note of WWE thanking the Resch Center for doing the ticket refund was covered by WBAY in Green Bay. Funny thing is their story credits the decision to Donald Trump, not Vince McMahon, at <http://www.wbay.com/Global/story.asp?S=10603398>
